"THE STREET" EXPECTS A RE-VIVAL AFTER ELECTION.

New York, Nov. 7.—Last week's preelection conservatism in Wall street was manifest today only in a somewhat contracted volume of business, the aggregate shares sold falling slightly below the previous smallest total since before the middle of October, when the market took on its greater volume. As for the price movement, it disclosed an emphatic expectation of higher prices and an enlarged public demand after the hesitations due to the election have been cleared up. The expectations so far as it was registered in the day's transactions was very largely professional and particularly traceable to the powerful speculative forces which have acted in concern in the leadership of the market for some time past. But the movement became so comprehensive and the demand was so widely disseminated as to forbid the attributing it wholly to concentrated speculative forces. In the early part of the day the railroads hung back and were inconspicuous, and while they did not fully retrieve their position of relative importance in the market there was a sufficient share in the day's strength by the railroads to restore the balance of the market.

were leaders in that department, Union Pacific, St. Paul, Missouri Pacific and Atchison leading in the order named. But gains were greater, transactions were larger and the number of issues dealt in much higher in the industrial department in accordance with the assertions freely distributed from the headquarters of the speculative parties that the principal interest in the mar-ket was to shift to the industrials for The United States Steel stocks were the feature of the whole market and other iron and steel industrials shared in the attention given to them. The character of the market cannot be better indicated than by a sample list of the stocks of the industrial combinations and corporations which rose from 1 to 3 points in the course of the day's trading—Amalga-mated Copper, American Locomotive, American Smelting, General Electric, the Pressed Steel Car stocks, the Republic Iron and Steel stocks, Tennessee Coal & Iron, Sloss-Sheffield Steel, the American Steel Foundries stocks. United States Steel stocks, the United States Cast Iron Pipe stocks, Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke, Allis-Chalmers, Cotton Oil, Sugar, Ice, Corn Products, International Paper, Nation-al Enameling Associated Merchants, Inion Bag and Paper and American

The buying was avowedly based on the assumption that revival and improvement in the country have not yet had adequate expression in the secur-ities market, that the passing of the presidential contest will bring renewed speculation in stocks and that the specspeculation in stocks and that the speculation in stocks at 23%.
